Breaking Through * 2003 *

Leaving Whitman-Hanson Regional High School on our first day as freshmen, we couldn't believe that nearly twelve hundred students could barrel out of five doors in a matter of sixty seconds. While some students were simply anxious to get home, others were running to their busses, trying to keep their towering stack of books from crashing to the ground. Still others were bursting through the locker room doors to prepare for their athletic practice or game and more students were searching the school for extracurricular activites or extra help.

This giddy excitement happens one hundred and eighty days a year. And as this mad dash explodes, do any of us reflect on what we really learned that day? Not just the "how was your day" stuff parents might ask at the dinner table or in passing, but some cleared hurdle, lofty or easily reached, some break through, an idea or personal record.

Whitman-Hanson students find themselves "breaking through" more often than not. Each of those moments we experience are our own epiphanies: realizations such as how to use a simple punctuation mark, how to apply the Pythagorean Theorem, or how to find the courage to talk to a crush or speak our own minds. Others may give us various degrees of support and guidance but the biggest breakthrough we face is realizing we control our own destines.

Freshman Year

Whitman and Hanson united at last
As we combed down our bowl-cuts with care.
It was always a challenge to attend the right lunch
And to afford the increase in fare.

Led by Matt, Tiff, Kathleen and Russ
We tried hard to raise lots of money.
The sale of towels was a minor success,
But the pizza cards were just plain funny.

Pedro Martinez brought home the Cy Young;
Another show the Red Sox put on.
With Blair Witch and Regis' Millionaire show
Ricky shook his Latin bon-bon

Clinton and Lewinksi
What more can we say?
We survived both the millennium
And the death of young JFK.

The school lock-in showed our "maturity",
Even at six flags we kept our cool.
We wore pink at the rally, yes it's true,
But we still didn't rule the school.

The twelfth of June, it came at last;
The class had survived one year.
September would bring the second test,
For Whitman-Hanson knew we were here.

Sophomore Year

Pink is over and done with.
At the rally we wore white.
Even though we got yelled at more,
We tried to put up a fight.

Unable to drive our own cars,
Razor scooters became our thing.
Homecoming put in place by alumni;
There would be no queen or no king.

Panthers lost in the super bowl,
But what a sight half time was to see.
Never mind the birth of extreme football,
With none other than the man, "He hate me."

Hanging chads were as annoying as selling towels.
Al Gore was ready to shake his tush,
But then after all the recounts
We were so glad Florida voted for Bush.

The Weakest Link was on the air;
Mr. Rogers was finally done;
Eminem was the newest white rapper,
And on Survivor a big naked guy won!

In sophomore year came a challenge
To send a pringle in the mail.
Don't let it break or make it late
For this would lead one only to fail.

The state voted unanimously on MCAS
And students just could not believe.
Failure to pass the "Big Daddy" test
Means a diploma won't ever be received.

Twohig, Kaval, Meiggs, and Valla,
All teachers we'll never forget.
They all left a mark at Whitman-Hanson
And for always we'll be in their debt.

Sophomore year was finally over,
Being underclassmen a thing of the past.
A new administration was put in place;
Only two more years until our last.

Junior Year

We started off our Junior year
With Kelli, Matt, Tiff and Kate.
We were sure that the coming year
Would be nothing short of great.

September 11 will live in infamy;
Few words anyone could say.
When the towers fell we stood united;
No one will ever forget this tragic day.

After two years of waiting
We got to play Powder Puff
And we proved to the seniors
That we were really tough.

The underdog Panthers and Pats
Both played in a superbowl game.
Their last second field goals
Brought home titles and fame.

Lord of the Rings, Monsters, Inc.
Harry Potter and Spider-Man
Had us on the edge of our seats,
And made everyone an instant fan.

As NEASC roamed the school halls
Mission Monday was the rule,
And then both towns decided:
They would build a new school!

White tuxes and puffy dresses
In the biggest event before summer.
Wearing powder blue and orange
Totte was Dumb and Schraut was Dumber.

Then a group of students
Came together to unite
As they said a prayer for Erin
And her long, courageous fight.

Chaskes, Martin and Harris
The last class they had all taught.
The students will miss them dearly,
But their wisdom will always be sought.

The realization has finally come;
Our perception is crystal clear.
We must lead the underclassmen
Throughout our senior year.

Senior Year

Russell was back, with Matt, Mike, and Tiff.
Our senior year was under way.
With SATs, applications, and report cards
We rarely had time to play.

Homeroom started first this year
And the parking spots did quickly fade.
We had to be absent no more than six,
Or we just wouldn't make the grade.

It was a big year in baseball;
Emotions went up and down.
The Yankees' loss in the playoffs made us smile;
The passing of Ted Williams made us frown.

Students were gone for five days each
And we all wanted to know the scoop.
We soon found out it was pertussis;
Everyone was contracting the whoop!

Bancroft stepped down as coach;
Clifford was doing well,
Yelling his team to victory
Over Quincy in overtime hell.

Down with the Eagles, Knights and Blue Devils.
The Panthers were kicking butt.
They said practice makes perfect:
A Girls' Soccer Leaue Title! ACL what!

Students could not get to their homes;
On Church Street there was a spill.
For the first time some of us could vote
Placing Mitt Romney on Beacon Hill.

We didn't have a rally;
The Powder Puff was fought to an end.
An eighteen year old winning streak,
We did not defend.

The world was unpredictable;
We always had to watch our back.
The USA stood united
Against terrorism, snipers, and Iraq.

The senior prom was magical.
At the banquet we began our farewell.
What success the future will bring us
Only time would tell.

Mrs. Allan, Tinney, Anderson and Davis,
Are set to go their seperate ways.
Along with Mr. Belden, Alperen, Davis, and Rodier,
They called an end to their teaching days.

Graduation came early for us
A joyous morning in May.
Then came our last summer together
Hoping we will meet again one day.

Our high school years are over;
The future is finally here.
We leave our friends and teachers,
But in our hearts they'll always be near.

Just call out my name
And you know wherever I am
I'll come running to you.
Winter, Spring, Summer or Fall,
All you've got to do is call.
And, I'll be there.
You've got a friend.
Isn't it good to know you've got a friend?

~* Carole King *~

Nikki Dauksevicz, Liz Azevedo and Janet Wallace sneak a picture in before enjoying a performance of Grease at the D.C. trip in 8th grade.

And so we talked all night about the rest of our lives
Where we're gonna be when we turn twenty-five
I keep thinking times will never change
Keep on thinking things will always be the same
But when we leave this year we won't be coming back...

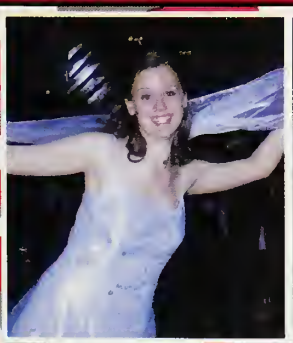
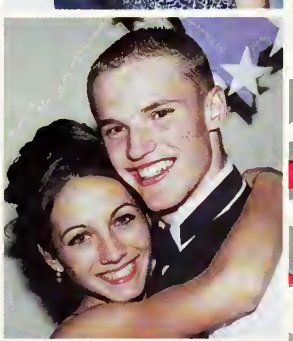
JUNIOR PROM 2002





A Night Under the Stars

Matthew Vincent, Kelli Sances, Kate Daley, Mrs. Evans, Tiffany Puliafico, and Mrs. Diogenes pose during the Junior prom. All enjoyed the payoff from all their hard work.

As May of our Junior year finally arrived, the class of 2003 spent the evening at the Pembroke Country Club sharing memorable moments they will never forget. After months of preparation the limos were booked, the dresses were bought, and all the students were anxiously waiting to experience their first prom as a class. It was a beautiful, starlit night that made the experience that much better. Pictures were taken, and dinner was served, then off to dance the night away. They all danced to the final song of the night "Remember Me This Way" which brought a tear to our eyes. High School really flies by and you realize that at precious times like these you are truly Hanging By A Moment.

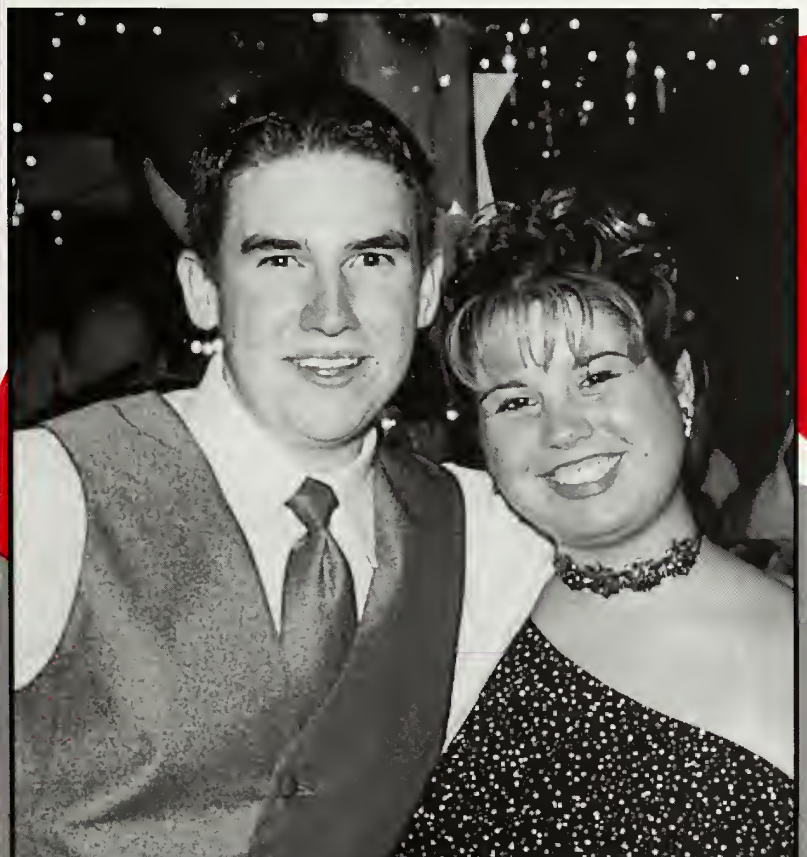
James " Ladies Man" Lyons gets surrounded by Stephanie Shapman, Kathy Powers, Meghan Connolly, and Kerrin Morganelli, a as he busts a move with "UnReaL" on the dance floor.

Junior prom was not only fun for the Junior class and their friends, administration had a blast too. Mr. Reynolds and Mrs. Diogenes decided to join the class on the dance floor.

After filling up on chicken parmesan and strawberry shortcake, these three lovely ladies and their dates decided to stop and smile before taking off to the after prom party.



While the lights twinkle behind them this cute couple Robert Hoey and date? sparkle before us with beautiful smiles.

With the dance floor filled, Michael Drewniak and Andrew Faxon take a break for a drink, decide to add some fun to the task and attempt to smile while sipping through their straws.

"That's All Folks!" After a funfilled evening, Mike Craven grabs his belongings to head out.

Senior Treasures

"I've had my hat since the summer going into 9th grade. It was given to me by a friend from New Hampshire. I wear it just about everywhere I go. People make fun of me because there are times when I will sleep with it if I am at a friend's house. There was a time when I had thought I lost it, but thankfully Mr. Barrington came to the rescue. Inside my hat are stickers from people and numerous signatures from friends. I feel lost without my hat. I have decided to burn it after my college graduation." ~Matt Vincent~

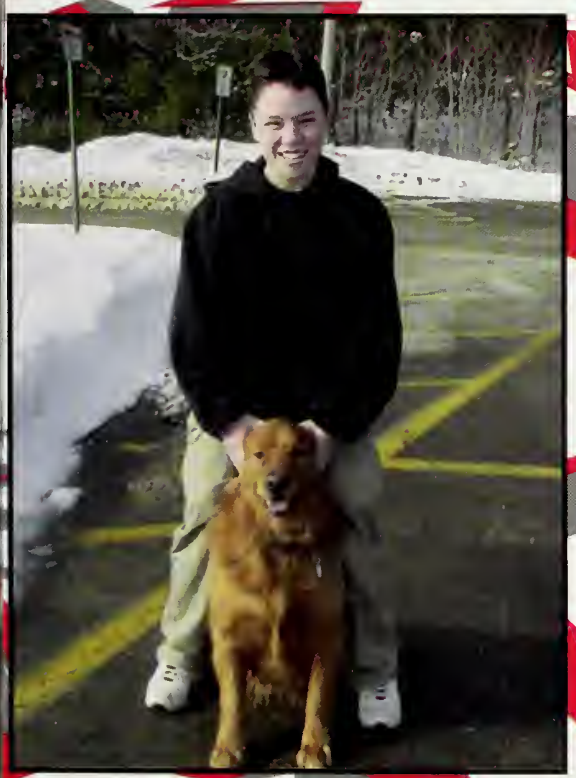
"This is Thistlehair the Christmas Bear, whom I recieved for Christmas when I was about six years old. I was having trouble naming him when my older brother suggested Thistlehair-the title of my favorite Christmas song at the time. Since then I've moved to a couple different places, but this bear has never left me." ~Christopher Reardon~

He said: "Aiste's light humored attitude and non-sequitur outbursts have kept me laughing, even when she is completely serious and utterly confused" ~* James Washburn *~
She Said: " James is my executive in charge of crazy; better yet, my prank monkey. It's fun having my own personal comedian."
~* Aiste Narkeviciute *~

" My boyfriend Joe Brogna, made this quilt for me because my old baby blanket was falling apart. He knew that I couldn't sleep without my blanket so he took three months to make this quilt and gave it to me for the Christmas of 2001. This gift is so special because it took a lot of time and effort and I know I'll have it for a long time"
~* Sarah Goodwin *~

"I've had this dog for as long as I can remember and I've never named it. All I know is that his eyes started to fade when I was little and my Mom colored it back in. She did it at least once a month. That little dog rarely left my sight." ~* Robert Hoey *~

Seated at the auditorium piano, David Clemons shows off the object he has the most pride in. "Writing or creating something of your own is one of the deepest experiences one can have. It's you putting your small, but not insignificant mark on the world. Three years in the making, my CD "Never Forgotten" consists of piano compositions I've compiled over my high school career. I originally intended the album to be for a couple friends who moved away, and then for those affected by 9/11, but then after realizing the parallels, I decided it more appropriate if these songs were written for all who grieve."



"My dog Max is my prize possesion because he always makes me happy. Even if he won't leave me alone and is continuously licking my face, or covering my car and myself with dog fur, it's worth it because he is truly man's best friend." ~Alyssa Morgan~

"There are many friends an individual makes in his high school career and no friendship is more of a treasure to me than the friendship of Matt Pennie. Matt and I have been friends since freshmen year when he was the point guard of the basketball team and I was the small forward. Since then, Matt has grown four feet (YIKES!) while I have shrunk six inches. Now I am the point guard, and M att is the small forward. Matt is a constant inspiration to me. He is like the light at the end of the tunnel, always growing bigger and brighter." ~Russell Young~

From Girl Scouts to Seniors in High School...Where did the time go?

Driven inside on a stormy day while vacationing with family and friends, Kerry Kelly spikes her hair out of boredom in the condo's jacuzzi.

Not only do girls go in pairs to go the bathroom, but they go in multiples, especially when they want to capture the wonder of the stalls at Indian Head in sixth grade.

These girls huddle together to mark the day of Elizabeth Gilmore's 12th Birthday.

Looks like Matt Pennie, Jill Colby, Alisha Cadman and Ryan Kelly are enjoying themselves despite the long bus ride to Washington, DC.

Cat Pendergast, Kate Marecki and Nina Connolly believe they can fly during the 7th grade Whale Watch.

Memories

Memories last forever, never do they die.
True friendss stay together, and never say good-bye.

Jaynie Perez and Liz Diotte have a "wicked" time dressing up for Halloween.

Chris Savage, Rachelle Barnes, Lily Burtt- Henderson & Katie Campbell capture their friendship with a group hug.

Bethany Kameese & Jen Dashner dig in at their pre-school graduation.

Heather Clay & Nicole Kelly on their first day of school.

Jen Griffith struts her stuff at Tiffany Puliafico's 5th grade birthday party.

Danny Roman & Mike Cavagnaro look fly for the 8th grade semi.

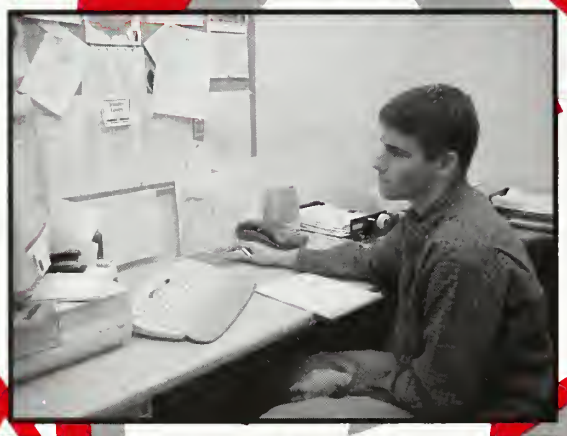
Looking for a Big Break

Danielle Robitaille spends her afternoons with first grade students at the Conley School in Whitman. As a community service student, this gives Danielle the chance to see if she would like to become a teacher.

Not only can Kristen Merlin sing but she can fix cars too! As part of the school's Partners in Business program, Kristen Merlin has had the oppurtunity to experience working hands on with cars at McLaughlin Chevrolet in Whitman.

At 12:30pm, Chrissy Pike heads to the District Attonery's Office. There, she calls victim witness advo-cates to inform them of their cases. She also has the oppurtunity to sit in and watch some of these cases. Chrissy enjoyed her internship and is actually working there this summer and while she is attending college.



Above: Ryan Walker has had the oppurtunity to experience the field of marketing at Lite Control in Hanson.

For the first semester, Ryan Kelly had the oppurtunity to experience working as an accountant at Lite Control in Hanson.

Every afternoon at 12:30pm, Candace MacCormack leaves school to attend her internship as a secretary at South Bay Mental Health. Above she is standing with her co-mentor, Karen, a secretary at the office. This job was significant for Candace where she plans to become a psychiatrist.

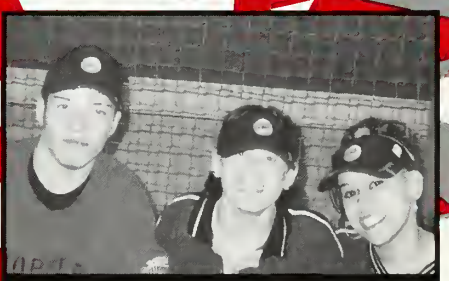
Waiting for the Next Break

Beth "the bookworm" Gilmore spends her weekends breaking into the bestsellers selection at Booksmith in Hanover where she works.

Many students from Whitman find working together at Johnnie's Foodmaster much more fun than any job could possibly be.

While working at Dunkin' Donuts in Hanson, Tiffany Puliafico and Jenn Thomson show a fun side to making money.

Seniors Kerrin Morganelli and James Washburn along with junior Ellen Henshaw work the weekends and late nights at Dunkin' Dounuts in Whitman Center.



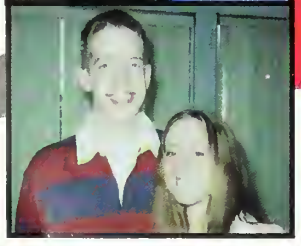
Matt Armstrong, Cat Pendergast, and Jaynie Perez take a quick break from flipping burgers to have some fun in the ball pit at Burger King in Whitman.

Kerrie Forbes spends her out of school hours serving MaryLou's customers in Abington.

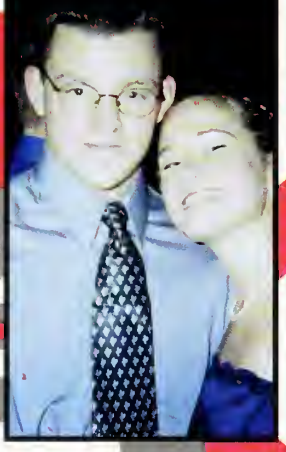
Kerry Kelly, Alisha Cadman, and Melissa Evans found their love for young children anchoring them a job at Busy Bee Daycare in Whitman.

It's all about the Benjamins! Jill Colby and Jennifer Briscoe not only make money at their after school job but they work with money as bank tellers at Mutual Federal Savings Bank.

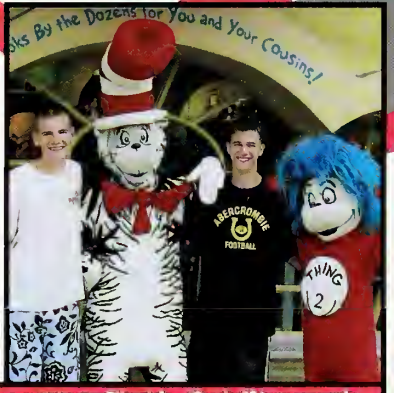
Brotherly love...even at work! Senior, Jeffrey Bailey, and Junior, Ryan Bailey not only share the same family heritage, but also, the same job at Circut City in Hanover.



From crayons at three to the semi, Kevin Owen and Meghan Connolly have been best friends forever.



From the Freshmen Rally to their Senior portrait, Jen Dashner and Allison Spivack know how to mark the grade.



Whether it is a school field trip or a trip to Florida, Zack Wassmouth and Mike Drewniak always manage to have fun.

Kelli Sances, Meghan Sullivan and Amanda Bickel have spent seven years dancing together.

From bad hair days through all the trials of high school, Jenn Thomson and Tiffany Puliafico have been best friends since 5th grade.

Now and Then

Yesterday was the beginning, tomorrow marks the end, but somewhere in the middle we became the best of friends!

CaN'T wE gO BaCk To The DaYs We WeRe JuSt KiDs?

As we enter into yet another journey, we look back on the carefree days of childhood and treasure the moments we shared. In kindergarten, our best friends were the people who shared their crayola eight pack of crayons with us. In high school our best friends are the people who share a common bond. Through breakups, make-ups and those times we believed no one understood, our friends were there through it all.

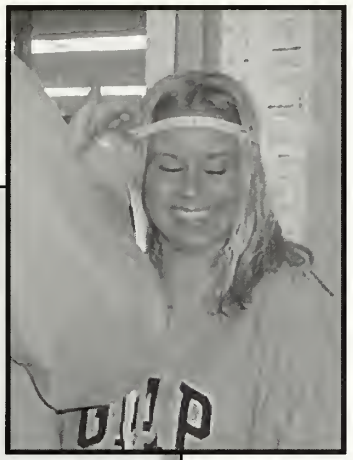
W-H Class of 2003....

"I can't wait to graduate, I am so excited to go to college."
-Heather Vogel



Getting measured for my cap and gown not nly made me realize graduation would be ere before I knew it but how short I was! hinking about graduating is both sad and xciting. I'm excited to graduate and go on o college although I am going to miss my iends and teachers."
-Lorna Migre

A Breakthrough to Reality

Remember the first day of high school? Unlike any other first day of school, this one was unique. Not only were we entering a new school, but two eighth grade classes from two different towns would unite at Whitman-Hanson Regional High School to form the Class of 2003. Freshman year, we got our first taste of what high school was all about. How did we make it through those first eighty-four minute classes? How did we find our way around a larger perplexing building, and at the same time dodge a mass of students to avoid being dragged to shore by a huge riptide? And how long was it before we learned that homework assigned one day WAS due the next?

Who would have thought the feelings of anxiety and excitement we experienced our first year of high school would return to accompany us through our last year of high school? With cap and gown measurements underway in November, we all knew our time had come. The Thanksgiving rally was missing and we lost the football game for the first time in eighteen years. Besides getting our school work in on time and working after school or participating in athletics, college applications were priority and the wait to receive acceptance letters felt like decades. The thought of being on our own seemed fun at first, but as graduation approached, anxiety once again set in.

Over the four years of high school we all broke through our youthful inhibitions to discover ourselves, who we were and where we wanted to go in life. Over the course of four years, we, as a class, enjoyed the fun each year brought. Our high school experiences were concluded with a break through into reality. We were at the point in our lives when we head out on our own to encounter the challenges of life. We will use all we have learned to uncover more and show the world exactly what we, the Class of 2003, are all about!

"Some say life is a maze of twists and turns. A cluster of events that you have no control over. I only agree with one part of that. Life is a straight line across oceans of sadness, over mountains of pleasure, and though valleys of despair. But we all travel that same route and it's only a tough one if you don't have friends to guide and help you along the way." To anyone that ever made a difference in the lives of others and in mine. ~Christopher Fredrick Balboni

Now a senior, wondering how i made it four years in high school! So many good times, sooo many bad times. I always wondered what it would feel like to be a senior ready to go off to college and into the real world. I couldn't have done it without my special someone! She was always there when i needed her, and never turned her back on me even when things got tough. Also some fun times hanging with SB, TG and TV and everybody else that I've hung out with. Ohh yah be cool, stay in school!

Senior Year is over, I win, the Freshmen lose. Tom, Paul, John, JT, and Laura the hallway in the morning which turned into breakfast instead, need I say more? Chess Club, The Year book photo is wrong there was only four of us, were not actually that big of a club, DONT BELIEVE THE LIE! Lastly to Mr Lynn, I hope your teaching when my kids hit the High school so they don't have to hear my "when I was a kid" stories about you. Always the Quiet Kid in the Corner. Invisible till the end.

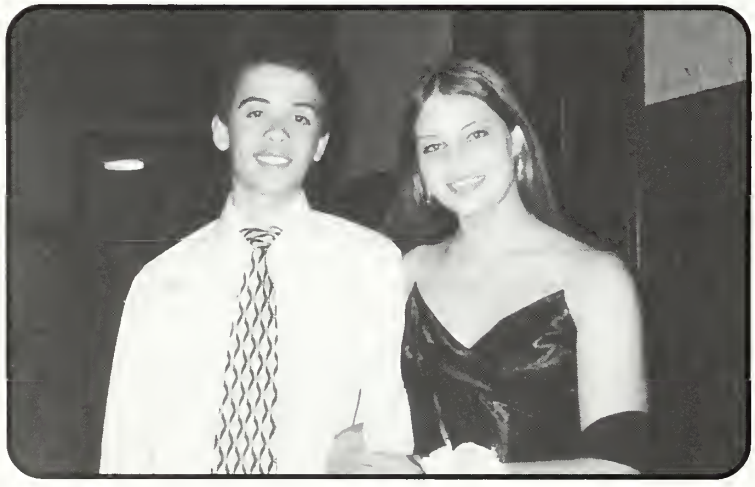
These exchange students have really grown close and quite fond of each other during their stay in America.

Guillaume, also known as "Will," flashes a hang loose sign to the cameraman at a breakfast held for all the foreign exchange students. Will's sense of humor made a definite impression on those who got to know him this year.



Pictured above are the very close friends Henrique and Julianna at their very first Junior- Senior Semi. Although Julianna has gone home, these two friends still keep in touch with each other. Henrique said he enjoyed Julianna's company at the Semi and he had a lot of fun.

Guillaume Vander- Stricht ~Belgium~

Favorite things in the U.S.: I love Oreos and CDs I am bringing all my CDs back home.
What you miss most or are going to miss most: I miss my friends and freedom, but I'm going to miss Eric Folsom, Andrew Hendersen and Jeremy Campanile.
Future plans to come back to America: I want to come back when I'm 21 and my family wants to for vacation.
What you love most about the America: Cable television and the friends I've made.
Thoughts on America going to war in Iraq: I think it's a bad idea. There should be a more peaceful way.

Cristinia Panizzolo ~Italy~

Favorite thing in America: Wal-Mart!
What you miss most in or are going to miss most: I miss my friends back home, the food, and freedom. I am going to miss the friends I have made "MY SISTA" and my host family Landreville.
Friends you have made that you'll never forget: Joy Murphy, Cindy, and Julianna. I miss her already.
Thoughts about Whitman-Hanson: I love it.
Will you come back to America: Definitely, to visit the warmer-climated States.
What do you think about America going to war in Iraq: No comment!

Henrique Vieira ~Brazil~

Favorite American food : Macaroni and cheese
People missed most: I miss my family and friends. I also miss Julianna, she went back to Brazil.
Thoughts on Americans: I like Americans a lot, they're all very nice - especially my host family the Nasons I'll miss them a lot when I leave!
Favorite item that I'll bring back to my country: My favorite items are clothes and electronics. I will definitely be bringing those back to Brazil.
Thoughts of America going to war in Iraq: I think it is a good idea because America has to put a stop to terrorism!
Plans for you and your family coming to the America: I plan to come back for college. As for my family, probably not, they don't speak English at all.

Foreign Friends Find Fun

Felix Diez
~ Germany~

Favorite American food: Chinese food.
What you miss most or are going to miss most: I miss my friends a lot - it seems weird not seeing them. Also, when I leave my host family& Matt P., O.J, and Andrew H.
Thoughts on America: I like America a lot. The people are so friendly, and I enjoy being around them.
What I will bring back: My DVD player.
What you think about Whitman-Hanson: I love the sports at Whitman-Hanson; we don't have this in Germany.
Future Visits to America: Vacations!
Thoughts on America going to war in Iraq: I think the U.S. should take slow steps.

Cindy Huylebrouck
~Belgium~

What do you like most here: The hospitality of the people and the malls and Cristina Skarbinski.
What you miss most: The way life was back in Belgium. I have much more freedom.
Favorite food: I love chocolate chip cookies and brownies; they are my favorite.
What do you like most about America: I love the people. I will miss it here.
Will you ever come back: Yes, in about four years to see what has changed.
Your thoughts on America going to war in Iraq: I feel really bad if the U.S. goes to war. I hope there is an alternative way.

Jose Castillo
~Columbia~

Three different favorite things in the U.S.: I love music especially "Dream Theatre," Burger King hamburgers, and the drums - I'm bringing them home.
What you miss most or going to miss most : I miss my family and friends a lot
People you grew really close to in your stay: Tim Henderson (he's a lot of fun to be around) and also my host family.
Future plans to come back to America: Yes, I definitely plan on coming back; my family does also. We have a lot of relatives that live here.
What your thoughts are on Whitman-Hanson: I like this school a lot; it's very different from Columbia and most of the people are very friendly.
Feelings about America going to war in Iraq: I think it is a bad idea. It will not solve the problem; there should be another solution.

Federico Damiani
~Italy~

Favorite American food: My favorite American foods are brownies and banana muffins.
Who do you miss most back in Italy: I miss my sister a lot.
The person you grew close to during your stay: My host family, especially my host mother.
Future plans to come back to the U.S.: Yes, I plan on coming back next year.
What you dislike the most: The lockers and cafeteria.
Who you're going to miss when you leave: Joy Murphy.
What you'll take back to Italy: Muffins and my guitar. I love to play.
What your thoughts are on America going to war in Iraq: I hate war it's a horrible thing, the world should live in peace.

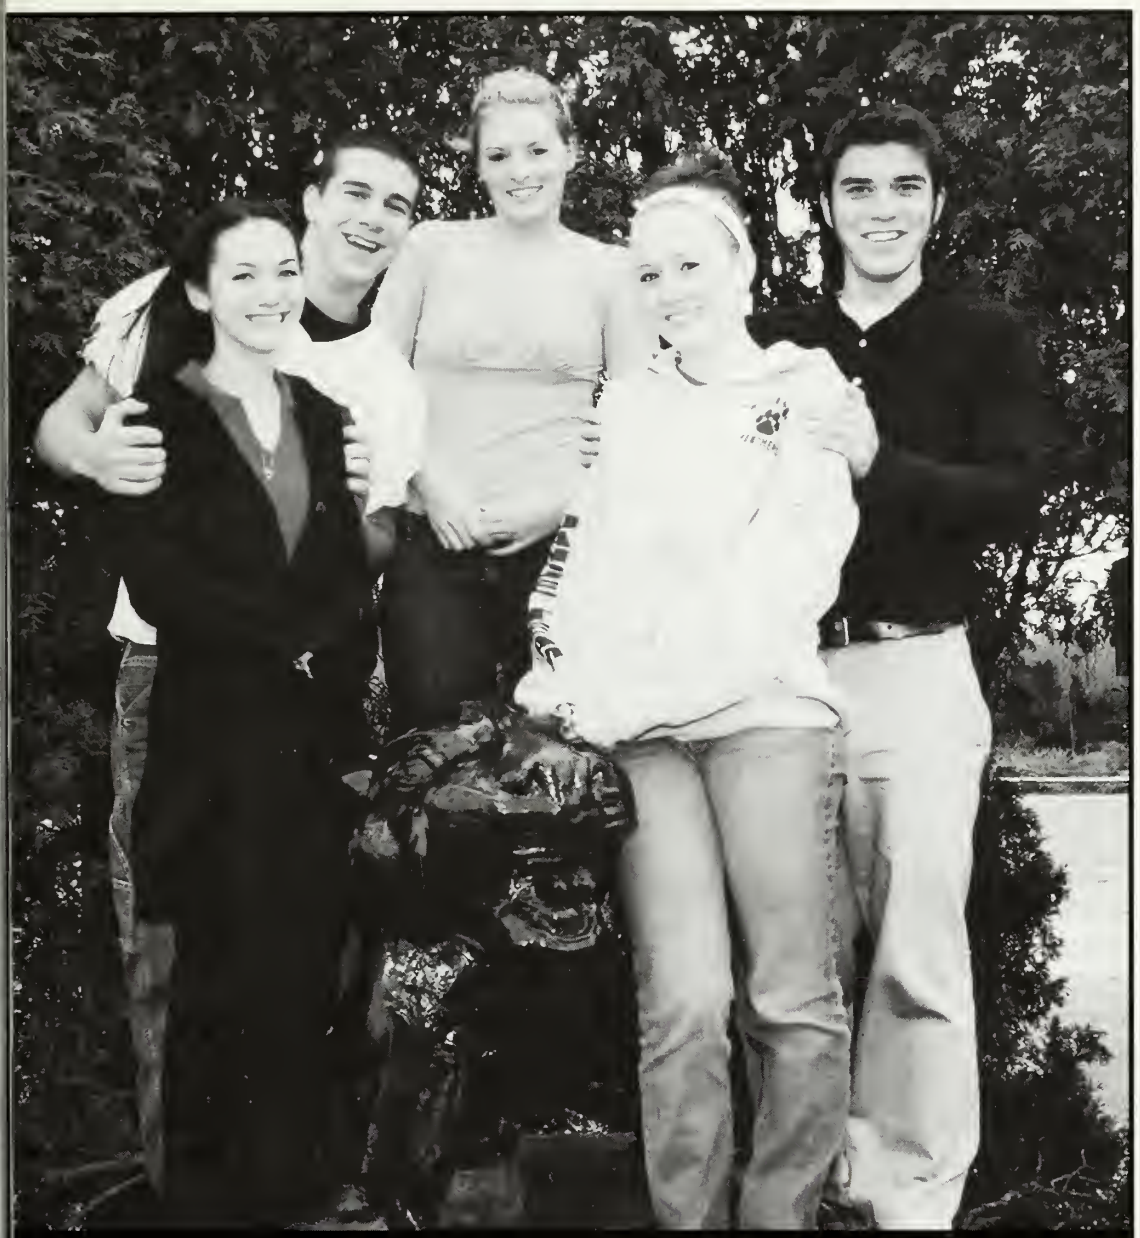
Superlatives



The Court of Mr. and Mrs. Whitman-Hanson - 1st Runners up: Chris Bonzagni and Tiffany Puliafico, 2nd Runners up Matt Vincent and Kelli Sances, 3rd Runner up Jenn Thomson

Mr. and Mrs. Whitman-Hanson: Russell Young and Allison Spivack

Senior Superlatives are a very special the opportunity that allows seniors to vote on who they think stood out the most in each category chosen. For the winner, it leaves a memory to those to look back on and show that they impacted fellow students in some way. Senior year has always been a good year, but this year is special because it is our year and it is our time to show off and do things our way. Every person in our class is special and they all stand out even though we can only chose so many people and fit in so many categories. But we left it to the class to decide who impacted their lives the most.

CLASS OF 2004

Kim Tomkinson looks almost as happy as Sponge Bob.

"I admire my friend, Allison Spivack because she is a great person who inspires me in everything I do. Allie is a great role model and sets good examples in all aspects, especially in Student Council. Because of Allie's accomplishments, I try to live up to all she has done. If it weren't for Allie I don't think I would have become as involved in high school, making it such a memorable experience. Next year when Allie leaves I will miss being able to go to her for advice, laughs, to hang out with at Stu-Co events or anything else. Allie, Continue to aim high and pursue your dreams- Congratulations on your graduation and Good Luck in college- I will miss you!"

2004 Make your Mark

Erin D. Croghan

May 30, 1986 - April 3, 2002

Erin, a beautiful fun-loving young women was sticken with Leukemia early in her sophomore year of high school, succumbed to the disease at the age of 15. In addition to her family and friends that she loved so dearly, Erin had a special affection for the color purple and butterflies.

Pictured below are pictures from the Star*Land fundraiser held in the fall. A great time was had and a great amount of money was raised.

I'll Be Missing You
It's kinda hard with you not around
Know you in heaven smilin' down
Watchin us while we pray for you
Everyday we pray for you
Till' the day we meet again
In my heart is where I keep you friend
Memories give me the strength
I need to proceed...
Strength I need to believe...
What a life to take
What a bond to break
I'll be missing you

Shattering Expectations

Senior Captain Jennifer Thomson

"With only two returning varsity players, I learned more about being a captain this year than I did last year. The younger players looked towards me for guidance and support. I taught them all I knew and we made it to the state tournament."

HELPING HANDS

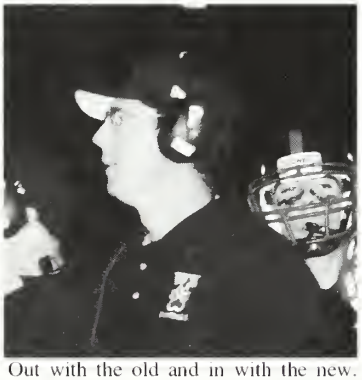
Bob Totte is escorted off the field by his coach and trainer after sustaining a concussion during a game against Brockton.

Senior David Cichocki

"All the pain you experience is all worth it as you pass someone better than you when you cross the finish line."

HAPPY HUGS

The hockey team celebrates the winning goal of the game by joining in a group hug.



Out with the old and in with the new. Coach Clifford is here to stay. Mr. Clifford, a math teacher at Whitman-Hanson, a fan and an assistant coach for many years is now the head coach of the varsity football team. Mr. Bancroft coached for the last 26 years, and left the program with not only a league title, but a Division 3 Superbowl title. Mr. Clifford has some big shoes to fill. With determination and hard work anything is possible.

"Coach Clifford has done an excellent job this year of keeping alive the traditions that have made our football program great." -Senior Capt. Russell Young noun - A school that demonstrates strength, power, enthusiasm, and a sense of winning.

High school sports are challenging and vigorous. Long hours are spent on the field, track, course, court, and rink by student athletes and their coaches. Whitman-Hanson takes pride in its sports' teams. This year alone Varsity Girls' Soccer broke through and secured an ACL title, the first since 1988, and Varsity Cheerleading made it all the way to Nationals in Florida.

Student-athletes are a group of talented, young people who demonstrate the drive and determination to set goals and achieve them. Many of our aspiring athletes have participated in the youth athletic teams sponsored by both towns. They teach an athlete sportsmanship, responsibility, teamwork, and a love for the game. This "love for the game" continues throughout the younger years and into high school. Without this love for the game and the support and guidance from parents and coaches, Panther Athletics just wouldn't be the same.

Boys' Varsity Football

The best advice to give any Panther fan during the season is, in the words of QB Chris Bonzagni, "Don't leave early." The Panthers kicked off another football season this year with a new coach, but the team continued to play the same hard nosed football which has made this program well known for years. The season was filled with excitment and unbelievable games. The Panthers finished with a (6-4) overall record and a (5-1) record in the Atlantic Coast League. But the games that counted the most were the four that the team won in the fourth quarter, often in the last minute of play. The Panthers beat ACL rivals Dennis-Yarmouth and Sandwich by less than eight points.

Last second heroics by Andy Dillon and Chris Bonzagni led to two other victories over Quincy and Nauset. The Quincy game was a thriller when the lead was tossed back and forth in the fourth quarter. But with 11 seconds left on the clock, Panthers down by a touchdown, Bonzagni threw a 'Hail Mary' pass which was brought down by Andy Dillon who turned and ran it in for the score, putting the Panthers into overtime where they won 33-31. Nauset was another exciting game where the score was 14-14 until the last minute of play. With the Panthers on the 20 yard line, it came down to Bonzagni and Dillon again. On a perfect out and up pattern, the Nauset defender fell for the fake and Bonzagni perfectly led Dillon into the endzone to take the lead 21-14 for the victory.

With excellent defensive execution the team also defeated two other division teams, Randolph and Coyle-Cassidy. The Panthers defense shut out the Randolph offense leading to a victory of 32-0. Coyle-Cassidy was another outstanding defensive game where again the Panthers defense came up big, winning with a score of 20-7.

Even though the Panthers didn't win all the games they wanted to they had a memorable season meeting all expectations with a young team and a new head coach Sean Clifford, who brought this team together quicker than expected and almost brought the Panthers to another ACL championship, falling one game short to Plymouth North. Regardless of the score, the Panthers fought their hearts out, never giving up until the final whistle blew. The Panthers brought another winning season to Whitman-Hanson and the future continues to look bright for the Panthers.

Senior Joe Memmo, an ACL All-Star honorable mention as a defensive tackle, and Junior James King stand up and control the offensive line of Nauset, searching for the ball looking to make a hit. Memmo also played on the opposite side of the ball as a offensive tackle making running lanes for the backs, and providing time for quarterback Chris Bonzagni in the pocket so he could throw the ball. James King playing a big role this year on defense will be back again next year.

Panthers' defense huddles around Coach Clifford during time out, waiting to see what defense he wanted to run in the Homecoming game against Nauset. Must have been a good call because the Panthers came out on top 21-14.

Senior running back Barry Gaynor has an intense look on his face as he searches for running room around the corner, while QB Bonzagni tries to get around the corner to make a block so Barry could make a run for the endzone. Gaynor had a great season both as running back and middle linebacker on the defense.

Senior QB Chris Bonzagni throws a tight spiral to wide open senior WR Andy Dillon. Dillon was selected as an ACL All-Star wide receiver. Both Bonzagni and Dillon played on the opposite side of the ball with Bonzagni playing safety, and Dillon playing corner for the Panthers' defense.

"The team finished 6-4 and 2nd place in the Atlantic Coast league with a 5-1 record. Two close league games with fantastic finishes established this year's team as a group that would fight to the end and compete for the victory."

ACL WHAAAT?! CHAMPIONS

Led by Senior Tri-captains, Kate Daley, Leanne Folan, and Liz Azevedo ,the Girls Varsity Socer team had an amazing year. For the first time in a long time, the Lady Panthers defeated the very talented Plymouth North Blue Eagles. Not once, but twice! Both at home and away! These victories paved the way to more wins. The thought of an Atlantic Coast League title danced through Coach Floeck's head. Coach Floeck challenged the girls by saying; " It is very difficult to get to the top and even harder to stay there." The girls accepted the challenge and refused to lose. With their dedication to the team and long hours on the field, the Lady Panthers brought home a co-championship title for the first time since 1988. After finishing the season with a record of 13-2-3, the ladies realized that "making the commitment" was worth all the sweat and hard work in the end.

Boys Varsity Soccer

Though the Boys' Soccer season was not one of many wins, there was no question of their hardwork and dedication. The team earned second place in the Coyle-Cassidy Tournament and also received the MIAA Sportsmanship Award. Senior Andrew Zaro couldn't have said it better, "Even though we didn't have a winning season, we had one of the best times of our lives."

The boys scored a total of 16 goals this season, winning a total of three games. Five of the goals came in the league match-up with Randolph. During a mid-season tournament, the boys' team placed second, beating Bishop Connolly by a score of 2-0.

With seven graduating seniors, next year's team will feel the impact of losing these players. One of the two captains, Mark Pare, will return to the team next year.

Girls' Varsity Cross-Country

After squeaking out a one point victory against rival Plymouth North to begin the season 5-0, the Girls' Cross Country team faltered in their final two dual meets and settled for second place in the ACL.

Captains Ashley Rice and Sara Trefry provided important leadership, but the leader of this pack was Sophomore Kasey Black whose performance in the freshman/sophomore race at the league championship would have won the junior/senior race. She finished the 2.65 mile course in 16:58, the second fastest time ever by a female on the course.

Even though the girls lost against their main rival DY, the team still ended up with an excellent season. The runners worked very hard to accomplish their goals and were more than happy with the results. The level of performance from the girls was outstanding this year.

Boys' Cross-Country

The Boys' Cross-Country team did very well this year, a lot better than the team expected. The team's record was four wins and two losses, placing third in the ACL.

The runners lost against their main rival, Plymouth North, but that didn't stop them from doing their best. In one of the most memorable meets of the season, Ryan Kelly and Mike Craven crossed the finish line within two seconds of each other to capture third and fourth place. At the league meet, running a 2.65 mile course, Mike Craven placed first with a time of 14.22. This victory was an awesome accomplishment for Mike since it was his first year running cross-country.

The captains this year were Mike Drewniak and Ryan Kelly. The All-Star runners, who have been varsity starters since their freshman year, were Ryan Kelly, John Miley and Dan McCabe. The team placed 6th at the Eastern Massachusetts Meet.

Girls' Varsity Volleyball

The Whitman-Hanson Girls' Volleyball team made it to the State Tournament for the second straight year. Led by Captains Lindsay Wadman and Kristen Merlin, the Panthers' Volleyball team held a record of 8-8.

The Panthers played some tough teams like Dennis -Yarmouth, Hanover and Quincy, but "the game at Hanover had to be the best game the girls played all season. After the first match everyone played as a team and stayed intense for the last two games," said senior Jenn Thomson.The girls had a tough season, but managed to get through it with Head Coach Mike Chin and Assistant Coach Jeff Lebel.

With senior Kerrin Morganelli's spontaneous attitude keeping everyone motivated, and Captain Lindsay Wadman's excellent leadership, the girls were pumped up for each match. Kerrin and Lindsay were also nominated to be two of the ACL All-Star players.

For a great play Senior Kerrin Morganelli and her abundance of intensity passes to the setter the first ball that comes her way.

Senior Jenn Thomson, an outside hitter, gets ready for a ball that had been served over.

Senior Kelsie McKenna uses her height as an advantage and goes up to hit the ball again to get another point for the Panthers.

Senior Lindsay Wadman is in the back row playing great defense and waiting to pass up to the setter the first ball she gets.

Captain Kristen Merlin, the senior setter, goes after the second ball that comes over the net and sets it to receive another point for the girls.

Boys' Varsity Golf

The Boys' Golf team has seen a lot of ups and downs like in their match against Nauset in which the golfers missed getting into the state tournament by two strokes. These hardworking young men like Captains Senior Andy Faxon and Junior Dan Gross shot 32 and 34 against Abington.

Their teammates did as much as they could and Coach Belden stated that "the most memorable game was a 223 win against Plymouth North." The win was a Whitman-Hanson school record as the team beat Plymouth North by over twenty strokes in that match.

A young team returned for the 2002 season, but with this year's experience the team should attain its goal of making the state tournament next season.

Majorettes is a year round activity that emcompasses great school spirit and competition. The year starts at the end of August with a week long band camp that prepares the team for regular performances at football games. During the games the majorettes use a variety of equipment including batons, hoops, flag batons and fire batons. The majorettes also perform at parades, jamborees, and competitions. The team competes in team dance twirl as well as individual competition. In July of 2002, Tara Delmonico and Andrea Kinch competed at the 2002 National Baton Twirling Championships held at Notre Dame University where they placed in the top ten in several events.

With Coach Lauren Belden by their side, the Dance Team has strived for perfection at every performance. This is the fifth consecutive year that the squad has existed, and again, the dancers performed at a competition at Emmanuel College where they received a fourth place trophy. They will also be attending competitions in Leominster and Framingham. This year, they will possibly be performing at some basketball half time shows.

Captains: Hannah Renegar, Kelli Sances, Kasey Peters, and Andrea Flipp.

Soaring To The Top

Varsity Cheerleading

The Girls' Varsity Cheerleading Squad had great team work and motivation this year. The squad made it to the nationals and finished in the top ten, at number nine in the Super Varsity division. The competition was sponsored by Universal Cheerleaders Association and held in Orlando, Florida.

After flying out of Logan Airport in the middle of a snow storm, the squad was stuck in Miami overnight. They were flown to Orlando the next morning. On very little sleep, and very weary from travel, they still had an almost flawless performance.

Captains Allison Spivack, Elizabeth Petersen, Jennifer Dashner, and Nicole Kelly provided great leadership this year. Not only did they help the squad and build great team work, but they also made it fun for the girls so the girls wouldn't feel pressured.

The squad continued with its great success and won the ACL competition for the eleventh season in a row. The girls finished out the year by placing third at the state championships.

An Unforgettable Journey

Boys' Varsity Basketball

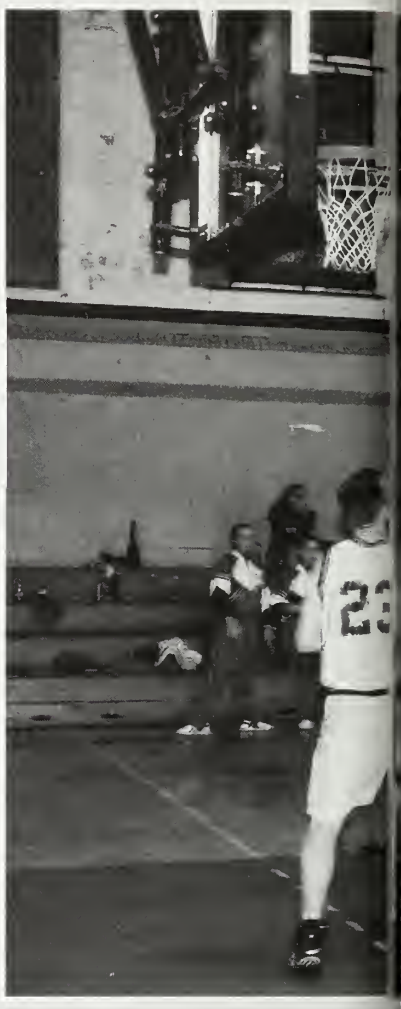
With quality wins over Duxbury, Randolph, and Archbishop Williams in the Panthers first four games, the season looked very bright for the team was guaranteed to pack the Leo J. Lane Gymnasium for every home game. Those victories set the teams hopes on winning over half their games, and achieving their goal of making the state tournament for the first time in a decade.

The Panthers thrived on out-working and out-hustling the other team, but that did not prevent several close losses to excellent teams. They found themselves with a six to eleven record with only five games remaining on their schedule. With this record The Panthers had to win all of their remaining games, including two against the two best teams in the Atlantic Coast League: the undefeated Dennis-Yarmouth Dolphins and the Nauset Warriors.

Dennis-Yarmouth had beaten the Panthers by over thirty points in their first meeting, but that did not intimidate the team. Led by the heroic performances of Senior Matt Pennie and league All*Star John Miley, the Panthers handed Dennis-Yarmouth their first league loss of the season.

Then, on an emotional senior night, dedicated to the memory of Erin D. Croghan, the Panthers defeated a well-coached Nauset team. In a matter of three days, The Panthers had defeated the two best teams in their league.

The Panthers fell just short of making the state tournament this year, finishing with a nine to thirteen record, but the team realized that sometimes the journey is more important than the result.



Sophomore sensation, Josh Cross on his average amount of points during a game " I don't have to worry about points. There's still plenty more to come."

Junior John Miley attempts a finger roll at the Panther home game against Sandwich. His unbelievable skills will surely lead the Panthers to victory.

Senior Andy Dillon puts the ball up and shows off his hook shot to make the basket as the Panthers take the win over Sandwich.

Junior Randy Fader gives it his all to gain those few extra points to lead the Panthers to victory at the home game against Sandwich.

Overcoming Obstacles

Girls' Varsity Basketball

"A team above all, above all the team" was the Whitman-Hanson Girls' Basketball players motto this season. Knowing that their goal was to qualify for the state tournament the girls knew that they had to play hard and learn their roles quickly. In their last league game against Nauset, they evened their record at 10-10 with a 54-44 victory to meet their goal and become eligible for the Division I State Tournament.

Coach Daley described the team as young and enthusiastic. Even though the girls' only had two returning players, they did very well. Senior Captain Jenn Thomson and Freshman Jackie Branca had both been chosen as All Star's for the Atlantic Coast League, while Junior Sarah O'Brien was given an honorable mention and Sophomore Claire Petersen received the sportsmanship award.

Senior Leanne Folan had just come back from knee surgery and had a great season. She was a great leader to the younger players and always gave it her all. Sophomore Jen Farrell and Junior Caitlin Barnes both stepped up their game in times of need.

Having finished off the season at home in the Division I State Tournament was a memorable event for the Seniors who had their last game.

Sticking To It

Boys' Varsity Hockey

This year the Boys' Varsity Hockey team was "resil ient" in the words of fifth-year head coach Mr. Googins. Mr. Googins couldn't have brought the team as far as second round in the tournament without the help of his assistant coaches, Mr. Smith, Mr. Manning, and Mr. Rizzo. The team was also led by the talented captain and assistant captains, James Lyons, Danny Roman, and Ryan Caselden.

The road to the tournament was a long and victorious one. The biggest game of the season was against Quincy at Quincy. This moment of truth was the turning point of the season. Playing with only fourteen men, the team was down in numbers and morale. The teams resiliency broke through and the skaters overcame their slight misfortune.Winning four to two, the team was pumped and couldn't wait to defeat the next team.

The team had one goal this season to win the league. Although the team didn't achieve its goal, the team came in second place, an honorable position. Not only did the team place second, it also went to the second round in the tournament. Defeated by Franklin, the skaters lowered their sticks and proceeded off the ice for the final time that season.

Three players were named to the All-Scholastic team, Sophomore Ryan Lenane, Captain James Lyons, and Assistant Captain Daniel Roman.

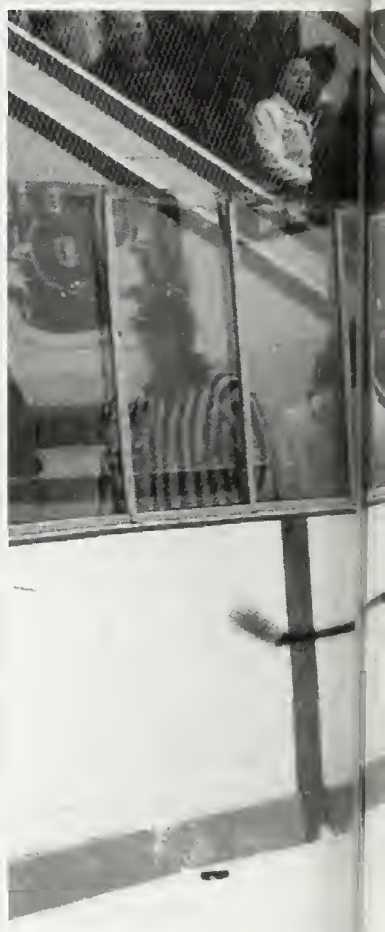
Lyons, a right wing for the Panthers, scored a total of 19 goals this season with 14 assists. After four years of playing for the high school, Lyons scored an amazing 80 points.

Roman, who played both center and left wing for the Panthers with his "scoring touch," was the main reason the team qualified for the tournament. With a total of 34 points this season and 74 for his career, his best game was first round in the tournament, where he scored a total of three goals, including the overtime game winning goal.

Talent comes in many forms and Assistant Captain Ryan Caselden shows talent both on and off the ice. Caselden was awarded the Atlantic Coast League Sportsmanship Award for the 2003 hockey season.

After losing a senior goalkeeper last year, the team really needed someone to step up and fill the skates of the missing player. Will Varley, this year's "wild card player," had an opportunity and made the best of it. Along with Varley, Russell Madden, Ryan Lenane, and Sean Hickey really broke through the ice this year and stepped up to the challenge. These underclassmen will be more than able to fill the void the seniors will be leaving.

This season was a series of high points and let downs, from big wins to low blows. The team stuck together and always played 110%. Mr. Googins said " I wouldn't change anything- the kids did a tremendous job this year and we went as far as our talent took us."



Senior Asst. Capt. Danny Roman "The super skater" glides over the ice and away from the defender to score yet another Roman Goal.

Senior Capt. James Lyons never gives up a fight for the puck. When asked what he believed was the team's strengths this year he replied:
"The team's greatest strengths this year were staying commited to team defense from day one, coming together as a team and learning from our mistakes."

Sophomore starter Jerry Comerford fought hard for the Panthers and has had a breakthrough season. We will be sure to see great things from him these next two years.

A Dash To Success

Girls' Varsity Track

"Determined is the most appropriate word to describe the team," said coach Elizabeth Kelliher. The Girls' Winter Track team has had yet another amazing season. With only one loss to DY, the team almost won the League Championship.

There were also many school records broken this year. Kasey Black, a sophomore, broke the two-mile record with a time of 11:42. Yasha Ibikunle broke the long jump 17' and the 55 meter dash record. This year's team also had some league all-stars: Yasha Ibikunle, Kasey Black, Kate Daley, Lindsay Wadman, and Amanda Kut. Senior Andrea Smith was named the Scholar-Athlete for the Pilgrim Conference.

Always wanting to improve, Nicole Sidor was an all-around athlete who focused mostly on sprinting, and was considered the team's most stand-out athlete. "She's always determined, asking what to improve and wanting feedback," says Coach Kelliher. Many of the girls said Kelliher's first year of coaching proved to be a success. Coach Kelliher is looking forward to next year's team. The girls this season really strived to be the best and set a positive outlook for future track athletes.

Boys' Varsity Track

The Boys' Winter Track team has had yet another great season. Despite much personal success, the team was not able to add to its past championships in the Atlantic Coast League and against Dennis -Yarmouth.

Senior captain Ryan Kelly, who won the Class-B Championship in the mile, said, " We worked hard and have improved a lot over the past 3 1/2 months...over all it was a good season."

Next season. Junior Matt Boyajian,Sophomores Jeff Monroe, Jay Almeida, and Justin and Jesse Fernandez are some of those underclassmen.

Boyajian said, " I think we have a good chance of bringing back the ACL Championship to Whitman-Hanson next season. I think we have a lot of potential in the upperclassmen. I also think that the break out performances of the underclassmen will definitely give us the advantage."

Breaking Hold

Boys' Varsity Wrestling

The Boys' Varsity Wrestling team went through what most call a rebuilding year. Truth be told , they simply had a tough season in which they struggled mightly. However, led by Senior Captain Ryan Josselyn, the Panthers pulled out some impressive hard fought victories over Braintree and Nauset. Despite being a young and inexperienced team, the wrestlers came close to upsetting league rival Sandwich in the opening meet.

Overall the teams greatest obstacle was the lack of wrestlers in certain weight classes. All the opposing teams had a greater point advantage to start off with, forcing the wrestlers to be down points before meets even began. The Panthers had to play catch up from the get go. Although these conditions made it difficult to win most meets, the team's " go get'em" attitude led to some hard fought victories.

There were three wrestlers named to the Atlantic Coast League All-Scholastic team, Captain Ryan Josselyn, John Moreau, and Dave Peterson.

One thing can be said about this group of grapplers: although the wins did not pile up as much as the wrestlers would have liked, they gave 110% in each match and didn't let their poor record get them down.

Brave in the Attempt

Special Olympics

"Let me win, but if I cannot win let me be brave in the attempt." - The Special Olympics motto.

The Whitman-Hanson Special Olympics team brought home the silver medal for Ring Hockey when they competed at the Winter Olympics in Lenox, MA. Members of the Key Club, led by their president Heather Club, raised funds for the trip by hosting the annual Passion Plunge for Special Olympics.

Besides going to the Olympics, the class also takes part in many in-school activities. Every Thursday after lunch, the Olympians go bowling at the Hanson AA. Also, when they have gym class, the team practices hockey and other sports.

This spring, the Olympians will compete in the shot-put, the 100-meter dash, and the 400-meter race at the Regional Games held at Brockton High School on the 3rd of May. Following the close of school, on June 13th, 14th, and 15th, the team will also participate in the state track and field Summer Olympic Games held at Harvard Stadium in Cambridge. The players will lodge in the dorms at Boston University.

While the Olympians see each other every day in class, the students also participate in many out-of-school activities together. They have all become good friends as well each others support. The Special Olympians would like to wish their seniors, Matthew Bold and Amy Keohane, the best of luck in their future.

From there, a student attends homeroom as well as their four 84-minute classes until the bell rings at 2:00 PM. A fter the bell rings, students are free to do whatever they want. Some students play a sport, join a club, work at an after-school job, relax, hang out with friends, study, or a mixture of these. However, on certain special days, students are rewarded for their hard work for days that aren't like the rest. These are the days that shape a student's life and will leave unforgettable memories. These are the days that a student will treasure and will make them realize that the whole student process was worth it.

When most students think of October 31st there's one particular thing that comes to mind - HALLOWEEN! Halloween is the one day of the year anyone and everyone is allowed and encouraged to dress up and recreate themselves into anything they desire! "So many people dressed up this year. I couldn't get over it- It was great!" said senior Kate Jordan. Students transformed themselves into many different (and unique) characters this past year. Whether students dressed up with friends, like bumblebees, the Village People, or the crew from Batman or dressed up individually such as Quail Man, A Saturday Night Fever 'Stud" or Enrique Iglesias, this year's was a memorable Halloween. By the outbreak of numerous students dressing up and the number of creative costumes by students (and faculty), this year was definitely a breaking through Halloween.

We will never Forget

September 11, 2002

On September 11, 2001 our world was changed forever. Every student at Whitman-Hanson suffered a great loss. Before September 11, many of us carried a false sense of security. We believed that America was our impenetrable fortress. On September 11, we realized this is not true.

"We need to cherish the moments that we have, at anytime it can all be taken away. For as we get older, it is not the things we did that we often regret, but the things we didn't do." We will grieve as indivisuals and as a nation and we will never forget. This terrorist attack was meant to defeat us, but all it has done has filled us with resolve.

Now we will look toward our future. Our national pride in America along with our devotion to this country and its ideas will help us to go on. We will rebuild our buildings, find new hope, strength and purpose. We will come together as a nation and once again reaffirm our belief in piece. We will continue to assist and protect those in need, Real peace is not just the absense of terror it is the presenceof justice. America will not be morally right. We dedicate this page to all the victims of September 11. It was a sad time and Whitman-Hanson class will never forget you...

On September 11, 2002, Senior Kelley Malone went into Boston to remember the attacks. Throughout the day, Kelley met inspirational and brave people including this firefighter seen in this picture.

Chrissy Pike

"I thought it was an accident when I found out about the attacks. We spent that day glued to the television trying to figure everything out. My entire family and I went out and gave blood, we continued to fly our flags high and we also donated money. This attack has made me realize that we are not invincible and that we need to watch out for eachother."

Kevin Lynn

"When I first learned of the attacks I was in shock. I spent the rest of the day e-mailing my relatives making sure they got away safely. After the attack, each member of my family headed a drive to send materials down to Ground Zero. The attacks should be remembered by every teacher handing out a list of every victim of September 11 so that the student in the classes will never forget."

Tara Delmonico signing the memorial of Sept 11 at Ground Zero, NY during summer 2002.

Changing Attitudes

Making A Difference

"Changing the way we treat our fellow classmates one class at a time"

With the pressures of academics and peers, it is far from easy to always do the right thing, regardless of whether or not it is encouraged throughout the community. In these times of controversy, a group of Whitman Hanson students thought it would be appropriate and helpful to try to reestablish ideas of unity and acceptance in our high school. This group of peer leaders called World of Difference hopes to impact students by going into everyday classrooms and discussing issues concerning the community and the world. It is a long-term project, but many are in agreement about the worthwhile results it could bring to Whitman-Hanson.

World of Difference members not only discuss problems, but they also play games to show the need for adjustments more evident among the school. Teams of three or five students visited every English class to present such games as, "Agree-Disagree," "Circle Time," and 'Schemes of Exclusion."

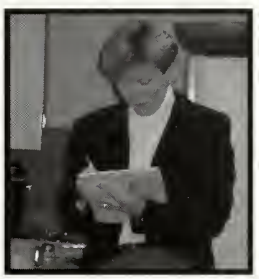
Senior World of Difference member Alison Spivack said, "World of Difference has opened my eyes to a lot this year. I am so glad to have had the opportunity to talk with many students I didn't know until this year. I think that World of Difference is a great opportunity for students to get to share their concerns and opinions in a more 'comfortable' environment."

Similarly, member Brittany Tonello reflected on her experiences visiting classes and encouraging others to accept people as something that taught her to be, "a lot more aware and careful." She went on to say, " I find myself catching myself."

Many members agreed that the seniors and the juniors were less receptive in the classes they visited. However, members of the student body and faculty are optimistic about the positive impact they'll notice in the future. Junior Caiti Cole said, "I think World of Difference is an awesome group. It definitely teaches the students a lot about people and is something more kids should get involved with."

Working out the kinks - Seniors Jake Manini, Stephanie Shapman, Chris Savage, Robin Walker and Keri Wood enjoys the games that World of Difference prepared to promote understanding of actions throughtout the school.

Above, World of Difference members Brandon Armstrong and Brittany Tonello reads of Mr. Goetz's Mod D English class a few statements and asks the students to walk to a different side of the room whether if they agree or disagree to the statement.



Vice Principal and next year's principal, Ms. Gould, prepares ideas for the students as the main advisor for the program.

Before the members of World of Difference could go into classrooms and teach students how to treat each other fairly, they had to go through courses and training session. From left to right, these World of Difference members go through the process of training and listening.

How do you feel about the possibility of war in Iraq?

"I feel that if they can commit terrorism then we should be able to retaliate with defense."

-Steven Palumbo

"I believe we should rally behind our troops and Commander and Chief because I feel that we are trying to make this world a safer place."

-Mr. Googins

"I feel that containment is a good solution, but if necessary, then so be it. If Saddam has the weapons of mass destruction and supplies Bin Laden, then they must be stopped. If we can find other solutions, than we should attempt those rather than force."

-Matthew Vincent

"I trust in the U.S. Government to do the right thing concerning Iraq and its development of weapons and mass destruction. If this requires war to secure peace, then I fully support it. My concern is the U.N.'s inability to onforce its own resolution."

-Mr. Lebel

War weighed and waged

errorists' strike...

After the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001 the United States grew more iutious and aware of the possible threats overseas. Terrorists hijacked four anscontinental airplanes. Two of the planes struck the World Trade Center towers in ew York City, causing the total collapse of both towers. One plane struck the Pentagon. he terror of that day impacted millions of lives, including those poor souls strapped in eir airplane seats, the flight crews and the workers from around the world at the World rade Center. We lost some of our bravest souls, those people who rushed to the disaster help. Firemen, police officers, and emergency personnel also lost their lives, as did ose common everyday folks who stopped their escape to lend a hand to those injured or ndicapped in some way. There are also the families who lost loved ones, and the co-orkers who lost colleagues and friends.

nited States on the Lookout...

From airports to airspace, everything was watched more closely. The first ajor terrorist attack was closely linked to a wealthy Saudi Arabian exile believed to be ding in the mountains of Afghanistan, Osama bin Laden. When the Taliban, a regime in fghanistan, offered to provide a safe haven for bin Laden, he accepted and eventually unched his schemes from there. Bin Laden is also the leader of a terrorist organization own as Al-Qaeda. Just as Bin Laden was linked to terrorism in the United States, ddam Hussein, the Iraqi dictator, had close ties with acts against America. Saddam has e dubious distinction of being the most well-known and hated Arab leader. When he came a suspected possessor of weapons of mass destruction, United Nations vestigators were sent into Iraq to inspect the targeted areas. Even though there was less esentable evidence than the United States officials had hoped for, President Bush said at Iraq has failed to cooperate and that Saddam must leave or face invasion. On March , 2003, the U.S. began an invasion of Iraq with the declared intent of removing Hussein om power.

Why are we at War?

After the 1991 Gulf War, Iraq was required to get rid of its nuclear, biological and emical weapons, as well as any missiles with a range of more than 150km. Despite ormous international pressure, the Iraqi government has yet to account for tons of nerve s, anthrax and thousands of chemical bombs. However, there are other reasons. When eorge Bush came to power he appointed men who supported a more aggressive foreign licy as his chief advisers. They already favored taking action against Iraq and after ptember 11 were able to persuade Bush that the time had come.

Some say America's main interest is oil. While the US will not simply hand Iraq's oil pply to US companies, they will see an economic benefit as the release of oil reserves uld end Saudi Arabia's effective control of oil prices.

ar Development...

As ours soldiers fought in the heart of Baghdad, we prayed that they will all rive home safely. Many Iraqi civilians have surrendered and American soldiers have ven their lives. However, the number of American lives lost hardly compares to the loss Iraqi lives.

peful Aftermath of War...

The first priority will be to get aid to Iraqi civilians. After that the pressure will to set up a democratic Iraqi state which the US hopes will be a 'beacon' for other untries. The UN is likely to be asked to help maintain stability and America will be der a great deal of pressure from other countries to leave as quickly as possible or be cused of imperialism.

Rumsfeld (center) and Deputy Secretary of Defense Paul Wolfowitz look on. How do you feel about a possible draft?

"I think that people shouldn't have to be forced to go to war. They should want to do and it should be an honor for them."

-Sara Mccarthy

"I am scared that the draft will occur. It would be difficult to see close friends and family be forced into war. It would just be unfair to see this happen to us."

-Caitlyn Squires

"The draft is an irrevelant topic that only fools talk about because it will never happen. It would take two years to train draftees for the emergency by then the emergency is long over."

-Mr Lynn

"If it means the security of our nation then I support it, but in this case I think that our army is big enough. I don't want to see our young people off to die."

-Mr. Floeck

Bust a Move!

Jr/Sr Semi, Saturday, November 9, 2002; Middleboro Town Hall

On Saturday November 9, 2002 at 7:00 pm, upperclassmen filled the Middleboro Town Hall's Ballroom ready to dance the night away. The night was filled with many memorable and unforgetable events. Events such as Chris Balboni belting on stage to "Don't Turn off the Light" by Enrique Iglesias and Kenny Yates grooving to Michael Jackson. "My friends and I really enjoyed ourselves- it was better than last year," said by senior Bethoney Kameese. No matter if you were a junior or a senior, both classes united to make this year Semi a memorable and fun event. From getting ready, to dancing, then to after-semi parties, the dance was definitely a "breaking through" event- one that will never be forgotten.

Whitney Chapman strikes a pose.

Underclassmen and upperclassmen pose together for this picture provin doesn't matter what grade you're in to have a blast.

Looks likes seniors James Washburn and Nina Connelly are enjoying the night.

Many girls gather at Tori Struble's house for pictures while waiting for their dat to arrive so they can continue their fun-filled night.

Juniors Heather Barends, Amanda Kut, and Sarah Molanari are all smiles.

Best friends Nicole Sidor, Gina Hover and Casey McDonough are having fun- like always.

Majorettes Kate Jordan and Andrea Kinch pose while a fellow majorette, Tara Delmonico sneaks between them.

ooks like Juniors Sarah Zaro and Julie Sullivan show off their nique dance moves proving that these girls just want to have fun.

se junior girls gather before the semi for pictures while they await their first semi as erclassmen.

Seniors Allyson Jaeger and Candance McCormick enjoy their last semi.

Reversing Roles

LET'S GET READY FOR SOME FOOTBALL!

Junior quaterback Emily Taft runs the ball while her strong defensive line sucssfully creates a window for her to plow through.

Bottom right: Senior Jaynie Perez attempts to run down the lighting fast Kristen Delacampa.

This year's 2002 Powder Puff game started off with the usual role reversal, but many of the traditions were taken too far. The girls' football game started off with funny cheers and exciting plays, yet was ended by a sudden boxing match between a few members of the class of 2003 and 2004. The Junior boys' didn't even end up cheering because their routine was not approved by the principal; apparently, the boys were dancing too lewdly, as if they were right out of the latest Christina Aguilera music video.

The first half of the football game was a little physical, but nothing really to be nervous about. Junior Nicole Sidor scored the first touchdown, and after that the intesity and physical nature of the game picked up. After all the practices, the Senior girls felt they couldn't let their cheerleading classmates down.

As the contact escalated, the first senior to get creamed was Kerrin Morganelli. This upset the Senior girls very much and that's when a fight broke out and the game was halted. The fight between the two girls was an unfortunate addition to the history in W-H's Powder Puff games.

Above: The Senior girls rush the Junior girls in hopes to gain possession of the football.

Junior Julie Sullivan runs with the ball in attempt to score a touchdown.

Break a Leg!

Ultimate Broadway, November 22-23 2002

The Whitman-Hanson Drama Club started their first performance of the year with "Ultimate Broadway". Ultimate Broadway was made up of songs from the Tony Award Winning Broadway shows. Some of the show tunes were from "Rent", "Cats", "The Phantom of the Opera", "The Producers" and "Mamma Mia". The show also had students from all grades starting from Kindergarten to the High School. There were two performances of "Ultimate Broadway" on Friday, November 22 and November 23, 2002 at 7:00 pm. "Ultimate Broadway" was the first show this year by the Drama Club. The Drama Club also performed "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown" during the middle of April. Both performances were directed by Ms. Connie Perkins who finally came back after a leave for two years to direct two awesome and unforgetable performances.

Junior Keith Fearon raises his hand during one of the opening numbers before his "Phantom of the Opera" where he had a feature solo and sang a duet with Sarah Wyman.

Freshmen Kim O'Connor and Kelly Armstrong gestures no speaking in this group number.

Emily Reynolds, Sarah Wyman, Brenden Makein and Amanda Clark all show their individual dance moves from various musical productions throughout the two hour performance.

Holiday Concert

Holiday Concert, December 20, 2002

A few days before Christmas Break students from every grade piled into the auditorium to appreciate the hard work of the fine arts students. Members of Band, Show Choir, Chorus and the Guitar class all performed throughout the day. Mr. Legge worked hard throughout the year with his Guitar and chorus class while Mr. Oliverie worked with the Band Class. Ms. Montogemry worked hard with the members of show choir. The Fine Art students not only performed for the student body but for senior citizens at the end of the day. They also performed for family and friends at night. The fine arts department had a busy day for themselves on December 20, 2002. Their hardwork throughout the year was evident.

the right, girls members of show choir wave and dance with fabric in the background to ate a very cool and unique effect.

Seniors Kate Marecki and Nina Connolly both best friends and band leaders play their instruments.

Senior Jeff Lehmann concentrates while he plays the saxophone.

Below: "Happy Birthday to...Joe Weeks, Mr. Googins, Mr. Daley, Alison Shadley, and Mr. Reynolds," who all share the same birthday, December 20th.

Right: After stopping in the Yearbook class to ask Mr. Goetz a question, Mr. Trenouth was recruited by students, Katie Lenane, Michael Dixon, and Francesca Treviso, to join skits they were performing. Mr. Trenouth models the "silly" glasses the other students were too embarassed to wear.

Above: Superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction, Ruth Gilbert-Whitner is surprised by a delivery from English teacher Mr. Goetz, his cloth fish, on Halloween. Such a catch similar to the motivational program introduced to Whitman-Hanson by Dr. McEwan known as FISH. This program presents workers in a fish market throwing fish at each other to make the work place more productive.

Faculty

While monitoring the hallways Guidance Counselor, Mrs. Evans shows her school spirit on Halloween by dressing as a farmer.

Whoever would have thought a teacher would have the same taste as their students? Mr. Lynn shows teachers have style too by dressing up as his student, Jake Manini.

The main office just wouldn't be the same without the helping hands of Mrs. Bonney, Mrs. Hurstak, and Mrs. Dobbins.

A Teacher is...

Someone who is wise, who cares about students and wears no disguise;
But is honest and open, and shares from the heart, not just lesssons from books, but life where you are.
A teacher takes the time to help and to tutor, wth English, or Math, or on a computer.
It's someone who is patient, even in stress, who never gives less than the very best.

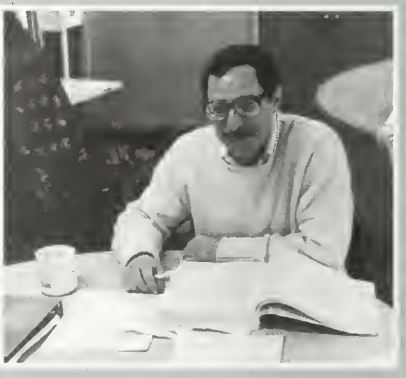
Words from the wise

Mr. Alperen "throws in the towel" after 34 years...



"Make it a great day or not, the choice is yours." These are the words with which Mr. Paul Alperen has ended the daily Words Of Wisdom during the final two years of his career. That sort of philosophy has been with Mr. Alperen since he became a teacher in 1969. He had no idea he would have a thirty-four year career that would see him recognized with a mention in Who's Who of American Teachers, and take him from teaching history to supervising a high school.

"I always wanted to go into teaching because I liked the idea of working with all different kinds of people, and being able to help others in determining their career choices." When he first became a teacher, he taught U.S. History and World History, AP History, and later had Assistant Principal Ms. Pamela Gould as a student.

"He was a great teacher who not only taught the curriculum but taught you how to be a better person," said Ms. Gould who was selected in January 2003 to replace him as principal.

Her statement also sheds light on why Mr. Alperen was interested in teaching History. He said, "It allows us to learn more about ourselves and the events that occurred that led us to being here."

While Mr. Alperen is among a few retiring staff members who have seen the current school building throughout its lifetime, he is very excited to know that a new high school will strengthen the quality of education that the district provides. "This high school has a lot of memories and a lot of culture, but the new school will provide a better learning environment for the students."

Though there will be several upgrades in the facility, the most important aspect of what the school offers will still come through efforts of staff to inspire students to be better people, just as Mr. Alperen has been doing throughWords to the Wise.

Having learned about how other schools had successfully affected their schools climate with such a program, Mr. Alperen believed "it was just something that I thought would do some good and it has."

One morning, the Words of Wisdom was about a girl who bought something from a store and was given back too much change. When she got home and told her mother what had happened, her mother made her walk back to the store, and give the extra change back. Later that day, the positive impact of the story was clear when one student walked up to Mr. Alperen and handed him a twenty dollar bill. He told him that he found it in the hallway and would have kept it if it were not for the Words of Wisdom that day.

"In 1989 I left teaching and went into administration and after fourteen years I feel that it is time for me to throw in the towel. I love my job and working with kids, but after I retire, I will enjoy the peace and relaxation. I intend to spend my time golfing, working around the house, and reading books. I would like to thank the teachers, administration, staff, and all the Whitman-Hanson students for making this a really enjoyable experience and a great place to work, I will miss you all."– Mr. Paul H. Alperen

Her ardor for teaching remains in the building

Mrs. Anderson's impact ripples through current staff...

"Mrs. Anderson makes English enjoyable for those who may not have shown interest in it in the past. She always brings new light to works of literature and is very down-to-earth. I love having Mrs. Anderson as a teacher. I don't think any other teacher has impacted me quite the way Mrs. Anderson has," said junior Nicole Sidor.

Mrs. Beth Anderson has inspired students here at Whitman-Hanson through her thirty-eight year career. By the way Mrs. Anderson carries out her days it is evident that she has a true passion for teaching. Ms. Belden, a former student and current science teacher agreed, "Mrs. Anderson is a passionate teacher. She honestly cares about her students' well being, and will be greatly missed."

She never considered the art of teaching as a pathway for inspiring others. She considers herself lucky to have fallen into teaching because she actually was pursuing a career as a translator.

After she took a step back from becoming a translator and got married, she found herself faced with the opportunity to work as a teacher. She was hesitant, but accepted the offer, only to find that it was one of the best decisions she'd ever made.

This incredible English teacher genuinely loves being a teacher and said that she enjoys it most, "when the kids are enthusiastic and love something being done." Mrs. Anderson plays a significant role in helping students inside and outside the classroom.

Once she got accustomed to life as a teacher, she decided to take a hand in the Drama Club. Social Studies Department Head Mr. James Daley '71, who played the priest, Father Drobney, in the Woody Allen play, "Don't Drink the Water," said, "Mrs. Anderson was a fabulous director." He went on to say, "Mrs. Anderson is a great colleague and will be missed by students and staff alike."

Mrs. Anderson inspires her students by teaching life lessons as well as English lessons. Ms. Kelliher '97, who is a Physical Education teacher, mentioned that she, "didn't quite appreciate or understand the value of the things Mrs. Anderson taught me until I reached college and saw how lost the other students were in English."

Her will to help others is apparent in her participation as SADD advisor. She still works with students in SADD ever since a few students came to her with the idea of adopting the idea at school.

Mrs. Anderson said with sincerity, "The kids have taught me more than I have taught them. I'm really going to miss the kids and the socialization."

Even though Mrs. Anderson plans to travel to various places around the world after retirement, the effects of her lessons taught will remain at Whitman-Hanson for years to come.

Still holding the cards after all these years

Mr. Belden's humor has brightened countless classes

In his sophomore year of college, Mr. Robert Belden realized that he wanted to become a teacher. Not only did Mr. Belden become a wonderful teacher, but he also became an inspiration to all other teachers. When Language Arts Deparment Head Mr. Peter Trenouth first met Mr. Belden, he noticed that Mr. Belden had a "great sense of kindness and humor. His dry wit allows him to put everything into perspective."

In his past thirty-four years of teaching, Mr. Belden has retained many memories which he will carry with him throughout his life. "The best part about being a teacher is getting to know the kids. Even today I still talk to students I taught or coached over twenty years ago." Mr. Belden has taught many of the existing high school teachers including Ms. Lozzi, Ms. MacCormick, and Ms. Gould.

Ms. Gould also remembers Mr. Belden's dry sense of humor from her days in high school when she had Mr. Belden as a teacher. "It seems like he's telling you a story, then the next minute you realize it is a joke or a trick, and it just makes you smile," said Ms. Gould. "Now, he's a lot more gray. He still has a very laid back manner of teaching although his basketball coaching was very intense."

Throughout his years here he coached the boys basketball team, tennis team, and golf team, and was the advisor for the chess club, radio club and National Honor Society." In 1994 and 1998, Mr. Belden won the teacher of the year award. After hearing these facts Ms. Gould commented, "Who did he pay off?" She was merely joking just as Mr. Belden would have done. These awards show how much the students appreciated Mr. Belden.

Another former student of Mr. Belden, Jenna Walsh, who had him as a Mass Media teacher, remembers his class. She said, "He had these magical coins and he made them disappear from his hand. Every day in class you never knew what to expect because he always made things interesting. I remember watching movies like Mission Impossible II and Glass House." Mr. Belden used movies such as these to help students become more conscious consumers of media.

While that is one of the lasting lessons that he offered in the Mass Media classes, he developed the media program from its infancy. "The media program we have at our school is due to the efforts of Mr. Belden," said Mr. Trenouth.

And though he may leave the classroom behind, Mr. Belden will still be active with the technology he has taught for 17 years.

When asked what he plans to do following his retirement, Mr. Belden replied, "After I retire, I plan to open my own videography business."

All-Star teacher takes a bow

Mrs. Allan's love for sports shines throughout her life

Ever since 1968, Mrs. Allan has been an integral part of the Whitman-Hanson High School staff. Her passion for athletics led her to teach gym, health and CPR. However, when asked if she would do it all again, she said she'd choose a different career.

After being a teacher for thirty-five years, Mrs. Allen is leaving with a lot of good memoires, including playing practical jokes with Ms. Pratt. Outside of school, Mrs. Allan enjoys skiing and playing golf. She also takes time out of her busy schedule to coach the boys' tennis team. After retirement she plans on taking it easy, although her husband thinks she'll find herself back at work quite shortly after retiring. When asked what she would miss, she said, "I'd miss the students and the staff the most and the preparation and the paper work the least."

After thirty-five years of working with the staff and students of Whitman-Hanson, Mrs. Allan sums up her experience as a teacher by saying, 'It's been real!"

DECA legend has done it all

Mrs. Tinney is a success in and out of the classroom

On a typical day, Mrs. Tinney would arrive at her classroom while her students gathered in the corridors waiting for her to open her room. No matter whether the classroom was empty or packed, the classroom doors always remained locked.

Mrs. Tinney's seriousness as a teacher is shown through her hardwork and devotion. Mrs. Tinney runs one of the most successful programs at the high school, DECA. Throughout her career at Whitman-Hanson, Mrs. Tinney has made many contributions to the school's retailing. Before her involvement the Whitman-Hanson DECA program was nothing like it is today. DECA was located where the bank is presently and only sold candy. As the years passed, Mrs. Tinney increased merchandise and relocated the store to where it is presently located. In 1987 Mrs. Tinney proposed the idea of having a school bank and tracked down local banks to help support the new program. Both programs are running smoothly and have helped past and present students prepare themselves for a business or accounting degree.

Senior Heather Clay says, "Mrs. Tinney has been a great teacher the past two years that I have had her. Her guidance and experience led me to the State Convention two years in a row. Although I may not be going into the retailing field, her knowledge has inspired me to further my education in marketing."

Mrs. Tinney is the type of teacher who teaches a class where students never get bored as she is always giving them something new to learn. According to Mrs. Tinney her favorite thing about teaching is "to see the students mature and grow intellectually."

Mrs. Tinney has taught at Whitman-Hanson for twenty-five years and says she would never take back a year she has taught. After she retires, she plans to travel more and to take time off for herself. When asked why she was retiring, she simply replied, "I am seeing children of my former students. It's time."

Mrs. Tinney's doors remain locked from the outside, but with one knock she'd open up the door with an inviting smile. Even though Mrs. Tinney is locking the door to room 139, new doors will open for this talented teacher.

A New Chapter Begins

Mr. Rodier's dry sense of humor, witty remarks and kindess touched all those who knew him best.

Mr. Rodier started at Whitman-Hanson in 1971 as a reading consultant. From there, Mr. Rodier was in charge of the reading program here at Whitman-Hanson and was in charge of hiring great teachers like the retiring teacher Mrs. Davis.

Before Whitman-HansonMr. Rodier taught at Taunton High School and at Xaverian,in Ohio.Healso taught teacher training while attending graduate school.

> "When I returned from teaching fourth grade for nine years, I discovered that he had not thrown away anything in my absence. I mean nothing."
> -Mrs. Charlotte Davis

Many students have had the pleasure of having Mr. Rodier for Freshman English, Speed Reading, or have recieved MCAS help in his Writing Lab class. He has seen generations of students grow from immature, unconfident freshmen to mature, grown seniors. In fact when Mr. Rodier was asked what he liked most about teaching, he said, "I like to see students grow, mature, and grasp concepts." He has helped many students during his time at Whitman-Hanson, and he recently received the Plymouth County Eduaction Association's Professional Service Award. Although Mr. Rodier is going to miss interating with students and his collegues, he definitely won't miss getting up at quarter pass five in the morning on weekdays.

"He knows what he's talking about and can break things down to make the most complicated things seem easy," reflects senior Lorna Migre.

Mr. Rodier plans numerous activities after he retires. He wants to spend more time traveling, perhaps to places such as Alaska, Hawaii, Australia, Austira, and Switzerland. He also plans to spend more time with his family especially his fourteen month old grandchild. Mr. Rodier also plans to work out in his garden and read more.

When asked, if he would be a teacher again, he simply replied, "Yes, I've enjoyed the years I've had."

A ray of sunshine whose warmth remains

Mrs. Davis' kindness shall be missed

"Mrs. Davis is truly a talented individual. She teaches us about the important lessons in life and that no one is perfect. She has made an impact on my life that I will never forget," says sophmore Kara Boyajian, of Mrs. Davis, her English teacher in her final year.

In and outside of school, Mrs. Davis has been an inspiration to many, showing her love for teaching and for people. "She's the first person to offer assistance to students and faculty alike. She is a great role model," said Mrs. Lozzi, fellow teacher and friend.

Mrs. Charlotte Davis has shared her teaching with many schools for the past thirty-four years between Maquan Elementary School, Manchester-by-the-Sea, and a prior stint at Whitman-Hanson High School. When she was considering her career chocies, they were limited. "You could be a nurse or a teacher," she says, "but if given a chance to go back to college and do it all over again, I absolutely would become a teacher."

One of the ways that she has shown her caring nature was when, with her husband who is joining her in retirement this year, she created the 18-year old tradition now known as "Penny Day." Although she is not sure how the name orginated, she knows how important the meaning is.

For many years, Mrs. Davis has been v involved with DSS, volunteering her time in many ways, including taking in foster children. It was in that role that she was able to witness the toll of the hardships in the lives of children who have been placed in that system. This role lead her to understand the desperate need to bring a little cheer at Christmas time.

She began by asking teachers to donate as much as they could, and she used their donations to make Christmas better for a few families. Soon, with the help of Mrs. Lozzi and Mr. Scutter, the students began to get involved. and "Penny Day" evolved.

For the students in her classes, she thinks that if they love kids and are willing to work hard then the world of teaching could be the job for them. She takes pride in her work and says that the most memorable moment in her 34 years of teaching took place this year, here at Whitman-Hanson, when a student recommended her for Who's Who Among America's Teachers.

Her presence will be missed by her colleagues in the Language Arts Department since they will need to find someone else to collect money for flowers, greeting cards and other thoughtful gestures. For example, on Valentine's Day, she delivered some cheer with special bags containing candy and a cutout puzzle in the shape of a heart with the well-known passage from 1 Corinthians 13:4-8 that begins. "Love is patient, love is kind. "

Mrs. Davis has had a great impact on the students of Whitman-Hanson and in the words of Mrs. Lozzi, "She is a true Christian and quietly does what is right." Although she is retiring from formal teaching, she will remain an inspiration for years to come.

He leaves a genuine void

Mr. Davis' impact was felt beyond the local community

In addition to teaching keyboarding and accounting classes at W-H for the past 30 years, Mr. Davis has been extremely active in the school community and has had a tremendous impact on the lives of students and staff. Among his contributions is his 15 year tenure as the advisor of the Massachusetts High School Football Prospect Information manual or MHSFPI. In that time, high schools state-wide have sent Mr. Davis information about their top junior recruits, and those stats are entered into the manual which is sent to colleges all over the United States.

This project is a major undertaking that allows Mr. Davis to share the "wonderful feeling of helping others" with the group of students who help compile the manual. The proceeds from the manual go to Shriners Hospital in Boston. Every year for the past fifteen years, Mr. Davis has taken the students for a tour of the hospital so they can see how children benefit from their hard work and determination. The staff of the MHSFPI will always remember Mr. Davis as an extremely nice and caring man with a corny sense of humor.

Mr. Davis is noted by co-worker Mr. Bancroft, who has also been instrumental in the yearly assembly of the MHSFPI, for his "sincerity towards the staff and students. He is always helping students with any problems that come about. In the eyes of Mr. Davis, the friendship he has made with both the staff and the students is the most memorable part of his career as a teacher.

Due to his concern about the well-being of the staff, Mr. Davis dedicated himself to teachers' union activities and became the president of the Whitman-Hanson Education Association. He served as president for a total of six years, three while there was a separate union for teachers of grades 9-12 and then another three years when the union represented the entire district.

Mr. Davis has also influenced the school community through his involvement in Penny Day. Penny Day started out small when he and his wife went to members of the faculty asking for donations. Over the years, the tradition has grown and now every student and faculty member contributes to the event. In the 18 years that Penny Day has been in existence, the school has raised $54,670.66.

Even though Mr. Davis is retiring, he'll still be keeping himself busy. He plans to volunteer at an animal shelter with Mrs. Davis. Also, he will continue to work on the MHSFPI for Shriners Hospital.

Mr. Davis will still be busy with these selfless activities. He will have fun with activities that he enjoys, such as playing golf with his sons, taking long walks down by the beach with Mrs. Davis, traveling, and just sitting back and enjoying his new house on the Cape. Mr. Davis does plan on getting a job again someday, perhaps at a golf course so he'll always have something to do.

The measure of his departure is best expressed in the words of his colleague and friend, Mr. Bancroft, "Mr. Davis will be a difficult person to replace. It will take two or three people to replace him and all the work he has done."

Andrea Smith announced National Merit Scholarship Finalist

Andrea Smith is one of sixteen thousand students representing less than one percent of high school seniors across the country as a National Merit Scholarship Finalist. Eight thousand students will be notified in March if they have received scholarships worth a total of $30 million that will be given for her college of choice next Spring. Andrea has applied to Tufts University, Northeastern University, Boston University and Boston College and hopes to pursue a major in pre-medicine. Andrea has been an involved student outside the classroom as a member of National Honor Society and Vice President of the Student Council. She has also been a math tutor, a representive at Girl's State, a track camp coach and a student advisor to the School Committee. In addition, she has won many academic awards such as Maxima Cum Laude and Summa Cum Laude on the National Latin Exam, Honorable Mention on the Framinghman writing contest and recognition for High MCAS scores on her test taken sophomore year.

Jen Mueller finds a mistake on MCAS test

Jen Mueller, like some of her classmates, did not pass the math portion on the MCAS test during the spring of her sophomore year. Jen had to be tutored in math so she could graduate with the Class of 2003. She retook the math portion of the MCAS test in the Spring of her junior year, but missed the minimum requirements again by a few points. In December 2002, she had one last chance to determine if she would graduate with the Class of 2003 or would stay back for another year. Jen prepared for the test and was tutored by the math teachers in hopes of passing the test. One day in class, Ms. Campbell passed out questions and answers to a previous MCAS test. This test happened to be the test Jen had just taken the past spring. However, Jen was befuddled on a specific question; everytime she tried the question, she came up with the wrong answer according to the answer packet. Confused, Jen asked Ms. Campbell for help. Jen showed Ms. Campbell her work to the problem hoping that she would be told she was making a simple and fixable mistake, although Ms. Campbell couldn't come up with a solution. Ms. Campbell then handed the paper over to Superintendent McEwan who turned Jen's solution to the Massachusetts Department of Education. As a result, Jen was given credit for a right answer and almost 500 students across the state pass the math portion of the MCAS. She didn't end up graduating from her effort in that spring test, but did by the December test by scoring a 230 instead of the required 220.

Academics/Clubs

Freshmen Scott Calcagno stops writing to read over his answers on an English Test.

Five sophomores stop working on their newspaper project to take a picture.

nior Nicole Kelly uses her hands for ance as she attempts to walk in a aight line with blurred vision goggles DARE and SADD provided the ggles to show the students how can ohol impairs one. The goggles made erything seem blurry and tilted a little the right.

Academics and Clubs are both an important component of a typical school day that many students and faculty take for granted. Whitman-Hanson offers many different opportunities for both academics and activities. Unlike most schools who have mostly main classes and studies, W-H offers a large variety of electives from Mass Communications to Astronomy. In addition to a large number of offerings of academic courses, we also have a large number of clubs available such as Student Council and SEAC. Without realizing it, Academics and Clubs take up a large amount of work and time.

The Wonders of the Math Team

The Whitman-Hanson Math Team, which is led by Math teacher Mr. Tom Fondoulis, has had a very good year so far. They have come in third place in their first two meets with only nine kids instead of the normal ten. But if they had an extra player they could have switched some of the other rounds, three questions per round. The team has ten minutes to answer three questions. The scoring system is, one point for the first question, two for the second, and three for the third. There is a chance of scoring six points in each round. The first round consists of Arithmetic, second round Algebra, then Geometry, Algebra 2, and the fifth and final round is Advanced Topics.

The Math Team is off to a very successful year so far. In the Panthers first meet, the team placed third with 89 points with only 9 players. Junior Byron Drury and Senior Alyssa Morgan were key players for this meet. Byron had two perfect rounds.

The second meet was also very successful for the Math Team. They came in third place with nine players recieving a score of 91 points. The second meet was led by sophomores Alison Nugent and Pam Clemens who recieve 14 and 13 points. Both students had a perfect first round in Arithmetic scoring 6 out of 6 possible points and 5 out of 6 points in the second round in Algebra. Both had a great meet as well as the rest of the squad.

The future looks good for the math team with two remaining meets to go. The Math team has a good shot at the playoffs, a chance they didn't have the year before.

Mike Drewniak scores a perfect 800 on Math SATS

Mike Drewniak is an exceptional student in Math in addition to all of his courses throughout High school. He has been the number one student in his class for four consecutive years. Mike Drewniak also did the extraordinary (and envious) task of scoring a perfect score in Math on the SATS. Mike hopes to further his education at either Brown University or Harvard and wants to study engineering. Starting since freshman year he has always taken on a tough math schedule taking Geometry, Algebra II, Trigonometry, AP Calculus, and then Statistics. In Addition to having a busy academic load his extra-curricular load is quite heavy as well. Mike is a President of the National Honor Society, Treasurer of the History Club and Secertary of his class. Mike has also been on the winter and spring track team for all four years and was Co-Captain of the Cross Country team this past fall. Whether it's being a math brain, top in his class or leading the way in various clubs, he is surely an amazing individual that we grew up with throughout the years.

Andrea Smith is an exceptional Foreign Language Student

When asked what individual has excelled most in the Foreign Language Department this year, Ms. Daley confidently mentioned senior Andrea Smith. Ms. Daley stated "Andrea Smith is one of the most talented students I have ever had. She was a pleasure to work with in class and in the student council." Besides being an Honors Spanish student, Andrea is an officer for Student Council, and has participated in numerous extra-curricular activities. Andrea also was a National Merit Scholarship finalist. When asked how she felt about Spanish, Andrea said, "It helps you to understand other languages better and Spanish is a growing part of our culture today."

Molinari wins local VFW Contest

This year's VFW Essay topic was 'Freedom's Obligation,'and the prizes were $500, $300 and $200. All students were eligible to enter the contest, and the junior and senior Honors English classes were assigned the paper for their class. All the entries in the contest were judged by the members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and they selected the ten finalists. Rich Bertino, Nina Connolly, Byron Drury, Andy Faxon, Kelly Flynn, John Miley, Sarah Molinari, Erin O'Connell, Cynthia Okerfelt and Danielle Robitaille were all asked to record their papers which had to be 3-5 minutes in length. All ten students attended the VFW one early Sunday morning to read their essays. Then, the winners were announced: First place went to Molinari; she was followed by Miley and Faxon.

W-H suceeds yet again at the Framingham Historical Writing Contest

Every year students taking AP U.S. History and Historical Research are assigned the devious task of writing a Framingham paper, an historical research paper that can be anywhere from 15 to 45 pages. Students submit their long hours of hardwork into the contest and then attend the Phi Alpha Theta State Historical Conference which is held at Framingham State College. Only 10% of students win an award, but over half of Whitman-Hanson won an award including Junior Byron Dury who placed first overall the competition. Andrea Bechen, Ben Jablonski, Cassandra Constantino and Ashley Wall all placed in the top ten and Andrew Baxter, Nathan Fowler, David Gianunzio, Dan Hopkins, Mike McDonald, Erin O'Connell, Mark Pare, Emily Reynolds and Gwen Tindall recieved an honorable mention. 3 Deca students make it to States

Three seniors and exceptional business students, Dave Branca, Mike McCabe and Heather Clay attended and qualified for the 44th Annual State Career Development Conference of the Massachusetts Association of DECA. All three students along with Ms. Tinney and Mr. Lebel arrived by limo at the Sheraton Ferncroft Hotel where the competition was held on March 9-11, 2003. Heather Clay competed in the individual competition where she took two 100 question tests along with two role playing situations. Mike McCabe and Dave Branca worked as a team and presented their papers that they wrote. All three students placed in the top eight in the State Competition.

Byron Drury Wins Award in Science Excellence

Junior Byron Drury was awarded the annual Braush and Lomb Science Award. This award is determined by the science faculty and is based on science excellence. Byron was awarded a bronze medal out of the 400,000 medals for outstanding science students since 1933. As winner of the award, Byron is eligible to apply to become a University of Rochester Baush and Lomb Scholar, which carries a minimum of a $24,000 scholarship. As a junior, Byron is already winning awards and an active student in History Club, National Honors Society, Math Club, Mock Trial and others. Byron also placed first this year in the Framingham Historical Essay Contest.

Fashionable Throughout the Years...

Back in the day Melissa Evans, Stephanie Meagher, Amber Stiger and Kelly Stone beautify their youthful faces.

"If it's not broken, don't fix it" models Tom Kiely's haircut philosophy as well as his fashionable bowl cut haircut that served him well for 3 years.

Alison Spivack gives a new meaning to the word fashionable.

Colophon

Breaking Through Retrospect was lithographed by Josten's Printing Company in State College, Pennsylvania. Retrospect '03 was produced on Pagemaker 7.0 using five Macintosh computers, the new flat panel iMac 700 Mhz, eMac, Power Macintosh 8500/180, Power Macintosh G3, and the Power Macintosh 7100/66AV. The press run was 450 copies at trim size 8 1/2 X 11 with 224 pages of black and white. The cover was True Life Color with a High Gloss Litho 478, a gloss and a Process Color 1 application. Endsheets were printed on Mars Red 200 paper. There were 16 pages of process color enhanced with various close registrations. In addition, there were 16 pages enhanced with spot color. The base ink color was black and base typestyle was ATLynn. Copy size was 11pt, caption size was 9pt. Headline styles include Speakingstyle and Steeplechaser. Underclassmen pictures, Staff portraits, some senior class potraits and some activities were taken by McGrath Studios. The 2003 Retrospect staff would like to thank students and faculty for their hard work and dedication and local businesses for their generous contributions.

Sponsors

Senior Kelley Malone smiles as she is just announced as the yearbook $50 winner.

Kelly Flynn, Erin O'Connell and Nina Connelly stands with a VFW offical and a sponsor of both a writing contest and the yearbook.

Senior Scott Regan smiles while on the job at Johnnies Foodmaster. Johnnies Foodmaster hires many W-H students and have been a proud yearbook sponsor.

Senior Rachelle Barnes anticipates delievering balloons to some lucky person on their birthday.

The yearbook would not be possible without the generous donations from both parents and local businesses. The donations given by parents and businesses allow the cost of the yearbook to become much lower and allow more possibilities within the book. With the generous donations made, the yearbook class is allowed to have fun with the pages, such as the use of color throughout the book. The yearbook would not be as productinve without the donations of parents and businesses. We'd like to thank them both for their generosity.
